Chapter No.: 623

Status: 10/8/2015-Chaptered by Secretary of State - Chapter 623, Statutes of 2015.

Location: 10/8/2015-A. CHAPTERED

Summary:

Would require the community college board of governors to conduct a survey, which includes both faculty and classified staff, that illustrates a statewide evaluation of the regional accrediting agency based on specified criteria and to report those findings to the United States Department of Education and the National Advisory Committee on Institutional Quality and Integrity. ACCJC has acted with complete disregard for its constituents and has not sought input from either its constituents, nor the public. There is no mechanism currently in place to guarantee that constituents or the public are able to provide input regarding the accreditation process or recommendation. Accrediting agencies are regulated by the United States Department of Education. Recent due process issues surrounding the accreditation of City College of San Francisco demonstrate the need for more oversight and a process for input. Accreditation decisions and the process used to arrive at such decisions have a broad and profound impact on colleges, faculty, support staff and students, as illustrated by recent events at City College of San Francisco. Those affected by the decision-making process have had no opportunity for input and feedback. A survey would provide an opportunity for feedback.

Summary:

Clarifies the definition of supplanting in the CSU system and requires state-supported courses to be offered as a graduation requirement to the extent possible. When courses are moved from a required course offering to an extension course, higher fees are typically charged. There are no limitations on fees or tuition charged for extension courses. Member workload and/or employment is affected when courses are moved to extension. Extension courses are normally not bargaining unit work and those faculty members who voluntarily do teach extension courses are often paid less per hour than for regular contractual load. Summary:

Broadens the Political Reform Act of 1974 by requiring all employees of public post-secondary educational institutions to disclose any financial benefits, royalties or compensation that employees may receive as a result of his or her decision to adopt course materials. The requirement is burdensome and is likely to have a chilling effect on academic freedom. The requirement could potentially erode the ability of faculty to select the most appropriate instructional materials for their students. The requirement discourages the use of academic materials that have been developed or authored by faculty in collaboration with research and development specialists in industry or research laboratories. Faculty often create customized materials for their courses in order to save students money and the costs associated with purchasing high-priced textbooks and software.

Location: 8/12/2016-S. DEAD

Summarv:

Requires community colleges to provide information and training to employees that are mandated reporters of child abuse; allows part-time community college faculty the ability to be trained at one district and requires that faculty be notified if they have a minor in their class. Many community colleges provide child development and pre-school programs on campus. Employees and faculty on these campuses come in contact with children and minors who are victims of child abuse or neglect. Increasingly, community college faculty are teaching in dual enrollment environments such as high-school campuses, where they come in contact with minors. Faculty are mandated reporters and as such, should have appropriate training regarding their legal responsibilities and the fines they face if they fail to report abuse.

Summary:

Requires intermediate steps of salary increases of 2.65 percent, or the percentage increase in the Consumer Price Index, for California Faculty Association members within the State. A step-and-column schedule allows colleges to pay faculty in an equitable and non-discriminatory manner because they consistently base salary on two objective criteria--experience and education. A salary schedule based on objective criteria will standardize placement for hires of the CSU system, regardless of sex, ethnicity, or sexual orientation. Step-and-column salary schedules discourage sex-based wage discrimination by recognizing education and experience as the determinants of salary.

Adds the percentage of part-time faculty required to hold office hours to the metrics included in research evaluating the effectiveness of the Student Success Act of 2012. Adequate office space allows students to consult with faculty in a confidential, focused manner without interruptions. Summary:

Requires that community college districts and the UC Trustees require faculty to disclose all income he or she received from publishing textbooks or resource materials; requires this information to be available to the public on the district website; allows districts and trustees to fine faculty who do not file these disclosures up to $50. Employees in industry and research often retain rights and royalties. Faculty members who develop online courses spend many additional hours of extra time in the development, testing, and refinement of coursework and materials. There is no reason why the principle for "extra pay for extra work" should not extend to education employees. Posting of additional income received for outside work on a public website represents an onerous intrusion and also subjects faculty to a level os scrutiny that exceeds normal reporting required of non-public employees.

Location: 9/21/2016-S. CHAPTERED

Summary:

Grants permanent priority registration for foster youth or former foster youth students in the Extended Opportunity and Services Program; and to disabled students in the Disabled Students Programs and Services to the California State University and California Community Colleges. The current provision of priority registration for foster youth, EOPS and disabled students, has helped these students to complete college coursework needed for graduation. If not extended, laws guaranteeing priority registration will be repealed January 1, 2017. Would extend this provision indefinitely in order to help these students complete college. Foster youth, EOPS, and disabled students are limited in the number of courses they can successfully handle during any given semester or quarter. Priority registration allows these students priority access to courses needed for graduation. This allows these students to complete their college program in a reasonable period of time and reduces the cost of a degree.
